

Season 1 Episode 14

Jason Alone

Jason is in the living room reading a comic book and he sees that Mason is getting ready to leave and their parents have the car set up and ready to go. Jason said, "Where are you heading off to?" Mason said, "I am going to the science convention in San Diego. I will be back in a few days." Jason said, "And you didn't think to invite me?" Mason said, "You would not like it. It is filled with scientific discoveries that would put you to sleep faster than the political scenes in the latest Starchest movie." Jason said, "I guess that's good then." The car leaves and Jason sees that he is home alone. Jason said, "I am home alone. I will be home alone for the next few days. Oh, how lovely this will be."

Jason sits on the couch in his boxers and wearing an old plaid shirt and he looks at a TV guide. Jason said, "What is on tonight? Santa Claus vs The Wolfman, I've seen that one before. Dracula saves the World, seen it! The Three Idiots meet Academes, seen it! Is there something that is on TV tonight that I have not yet seen?" Jason flips through all of the pages of the TV guide and he said, "There's nothing good in here that I have not yet seen. What to do, oh, what to do?" Jason paces in the living room thinking of what to do next. He sees an address book sitting on the side table. Jason sits down and he grabs onto the book and he looks through his list of personal contacts. Jason said, "I have an idea. I will throw the greatest party the block has seen since the 80's. This is going to be awesome. I just have to give all of my friends a call." Jason picks up the phone and he calls all the names of his neighborhood friends in the book.

Jason dresses in a nice-looking suit with a tie and he looks at his watch as he waits for the guests to show up late at night. A cool car shows up and a cool looking couple walks out. Jason said to them, "Good evening madam and mousier, I will take your coats, you may enter, the pizza will be here shortly." The couple enters the house. A white stretched limo drives up to the house and DG the Rapper walks out of it. Jason said, "DG, I am glad you can make it." DG said, "It's the least I can do after you helped me out of prison." Jason said, "You can set up your stage in the backyard." DG goes to the backyard to set up for his concert.

Within the next hour, more and more guests arrive at Jason's place and Jason gets on the back stage where everyone watches him. Jason said, "Hello, hello everyone. I am your host, Jason. This is supposed to be the greatest party we will see in this decade and for decades to come. Let's make some noise and have fun with DG the Rapper to help us with that." DG walks on stage and he gets to the microphone and he starts rapping and Jason jumps off stage and he falls into the crowd and they carry him to the house. There are some people in the house drinking coffee and soda and the TV is on and people are socializing. It looks like the party Jason had hoped for. The doorbell rings and Jason answers it. He sees a tough looking man at the door with two stacks full of pizza boxes. The man said, "Are you Jason?" Jason said, "You must be the pizza man. I have your money here and I assume you have that large assortments of pizzas that I ordered." The man said, "I am from Samuel L Jackson's Pizza and I have the large assortment of vegetables, meat, fish, cheese, and chocolate chip." Jason signs the signature form and the pizzas are taken to the backyard. The pizzas are placed on a large table and the guests begin to dig in.

Jason grabs onto a bottle of orange soda and he chugs it down in one gulp. A bunch of girls watch him and they clap after they see him do that. Jason begins to dance like a crazy idiot to the music. He busts some mad moves that have the whole crowd staring at him. Jason grabs onto a lamp and he takes the shade off the lamp and he puts it on his head and he does some more funny dances. Jason takes off his shirt and he continues to dance like an idiot. People begin to laugh and cheer him on. Jason sees a bra on the ground and he picks it up and he puts it on his chest. Jason moves the bra around his chest and he said, "Look at me, I would have been one hot mama."

The party is packed as the whole neighborhood and people from the community have shown up to the party. Two shady looking men come to the party and they walk around the open areas and they observe how everything is arranged. They take note of what they see. They pay careful attention to the man wearing a bra and a lamp shade on his head. One of the shady men said, "That's the host of the party? He seems weak and pathetic." The other shady man said, "He may be some killer in disguise. We cannot underestimate him. We need to assume he is the worst thing that he can possibly be. You know, like that kid that outsmarted our colleagues on Christmas eve many years ago." The other shady man said, "I doubt he is like that. The chances of running into some kid that can outsmart us are one in a million." The other shady man said, "I hope you are right or we could be in some serious trouble."

It is 1 AM and everyone leaves and Jason cleans the house and backyard. Jason sees there is a large mess and he falls on the couch and he falls asleep there. Jason wakes up the next morning and he falls into a mountain of used soda cans and then he falls onto a pad of crushed pizza boxes. Jason walks out onto the yard and he sees someone threw a chair from the house on the back lawn. Jason said, "Who would have the strength to do something like this?" Jason tries to push the heavy chair back into the house but it is too heavy for him. Jason thinks and he gets an idea. He goes into Mason's lab and he gets a simple humanoid robot to come out and pick the chair up and put it back in the house. The robot continues to help Jason clean up the house. Jason goes to the curve at the end of the driveway and he notices something wrong. He looks at everyone's house on the street and he sees that they all have broken windows and they look empty on the inside. Jason said, "Did everybody in the neighborhood have a sudden urge to move out?"

Jason sits on the couch and he turns on the TV and he watches the news. George Ferrier comes on and he said, "Hello I am George Ferrier of DDD news. Last night, the greatest wave of break and enters in San Francisco occurred. A resident of San Francisco that we believe is our Jason hosted a party at his house last night. While this party took place, criminals broke into every house on the street and stole all their personal belongings. I for one would not want to be Jason right now since everyone is probably angry with him. To tell the truth, it is not Jason's fault that this happened. He just wanted all of us to have fun as he stated last night when one of our reporters attended the party." Jason said, "I don't remember there being any reporters there last night. I guess I must have been horribly buzzed from all the soda I drank." George Ferrier said, "This is not Jason's fault at all. I wish to inform the public that Jason is not to blame for this. These criminals are to blame for this. The police have informed us to tell you that if you know anything about these break-ins, call the San Francisco PD immediately. I am George Ferrier, DDD news." Jason said, "All this happened, because of me. I really do feel somewhat responsible."

Jason looks out the window and he sees a strange white van parked on the street with two shady men he caught a glimpse of at the party last night. Jason said, "I wonder." Jason leaves the house and he walks down the street and he walks past the van. He hides behind a post and he watches the van from the shady men's blind spot. He sees the two men dressed in black coats get out of the van and they head for Jason's house. Jason quietly runs past them and he enters a back door of the house and he is back in the house and he waits at the front door. A few seconds later, the shady figures knock on the door and Jason opens the door with the chain on and he said, "Who is this?" One of the men said, "This is Buzz from the Caterer of the party last night and we want to know how well we did." Jason said, "Well in that case, you did a decent job I would for sure say you were a hit." One of the men said, "That's good." The two men leave and they head back for the van but the van does not leave. Jason said, "I think I know what is going on. I need to prove they are criminals. But how. Maybe they will strike tonight if they think I am helplessly home alone with no one else around."

It is nighttime and Jason goes to bed and he can't sleep because he can't stop thinking about the criminals that are stalking him. Jason thinks of a plan and he sees he has a load of toys in his closet. He also realizes that he learned how to control some of the machines in Mason's lab. Jason smiles and he has a devilish grin on his face. He then hears the phone ring and he does not answer it. The phone rings again a few minutes later and he still does not answer it. Jason said, "Who would be calling me this late at night and not leave a message. They are probably doing something to get me out of bed to fall into their trap. I will not fall for this." Jason hears a loud and violent bang on the front door. Jason hides in the darkness and he leaves his bedroom to have a view of the front door. They keep banging on the door but the door does not break. Jason grabs out his cellphone and he dials 911 on it. There is an answer and Jason said, "My house is being broken into right now. I am Jason at address..." The criminals reveal themselves as thugs and they smash the front window down and they enter the house leaving a trail of broken glass at the front of the house.

Jason grabs a voice toy and he speaks into it. The criminals cannot see him because of how dark it is in the house. Jason said, "We are the Board, lower your weapons and prepare to be assimilated, resistance would be disgraceful!" One of the thugs gets scared and he said, "They're onto us, what do we do?" The other one said, "It is just some stupid security system. We can get through it. We went through many of these last night and we were alright." Jason realizes that these are the thugs that robbed the neighborhood last night. Jason sees they are armed with baseball bats. Jason sneaks to the kitchen using a trap door that Mason built and he goes to the kitchen and he sets up a crazy toy in the kitchen. He makes some sound and one of the criminals turns on the light in the kitchen and they see Jason's toy set. It looks like the stage to a musical and there are figures on it of characters from some puppet variety show. The stage turns on and the puppets sing songs from their show and they dance around. One of the thugs slams a baseball bat into it and they break the toy. Jason is in the living room and he quickly puts on his barbershop costume and he gets his cane and he hides on a shelf. The thugs turn on the light in the living room and they look around. They see Jason hiding on the shelf in his barbershop costume. One of the thugs said, "Hey, look at this life-like toy." The other thug said, "That's not a life-like toy you idiot, that's the guy we saw at the party last night. He is here and he wants to end our crime wave." The two thugs are about to hit Jason and he gets up and he dances around and he sings barbershop songs and he dodges the attacks as he dances and sings the songs.

Jason leaves his costume on and he is followed by the thugs to a table of toys and collectables. Jason said, "Come one come all to the auction of the century. For a whopping small price, you can buy this legendary baseball bat that won the world championship in the 1973 world series. Or you can buy this Osmond Computer from 1981 that is complete with a quarter of a gigabyte of memory on the whole computer. Or you can buy some of this or this." Jason holds up some various knick-knacks and he said, "Or, maybe it's time to kick some butt." The thugs run for him and they try to hit him with their baseball bats and they miss him and Jason said, "Strike one, you missed. My grandma swings better than that." The thugs get angry and they take many more swings at Jason and they all miss. Jason said, "You guys can't swing even if your life depended on it." They get angry at him and they make a full-frontal swing at Jason but Jason blocks the attack completely with his collectable baseball bat. They start dueling him as if the bats are swords. Jason said, "A bat fight. I never would have guessed we would be doing this. I better put the soundtrack on." Jason grabs out a remote and he turns on the CD player and it plays an epic dueling song from some science fiction movie. Jason said, "Now this is more like it." Jason duels the thugs and they are so bad that they keep missing and destroy the place.

Jason throws on a black cloak that makes him blend in with the dark rooms. They run into a main open room with the light on and the chandelier hangs over the room. They swing at Jason and Jason blocks the swings and he quickly moves around them. Jason hits the chandelier and it breaks and it falls on top of one of the thugs. One of the thugs is down and the room goes all dark and mysterious looking. They continue to duel and they swing and block and Jason hits the thug in the shoulder. Jason clangs his bat in with the thug's bat and they hold it there for a few seconds. Jason smiles and the thug gives him an angry look. Jason holds his bat up to his body and the thug swings the bat through Jason's body and he disappears leaving his cloak on the floor. The thug said, "Where did the fool go?" The thug helps the other thug up and the other thug said, "A chandelier hit me on the head. I should be dead but I am not. I think something is horribly wrong with the physics of this place." The other thug said, "Physics are always wrong when burglars break into some kid's house and the kid has to defend his house from them."

The speaker system in the house sounds off and Jason said, "I am in the lab in the backyard and I am really scared. I know what you look like so I can tell people that it was you and you were here. I can do that unless you come to the lab back here and get me." One of the thugs said, "Let's do that." The thugs go into the backyard and the door to Mason's lab is left wide open. The thugs walk in the lab and it looks scary like something from a classic monster movie. Jason is in the control room of the lab and Jason takes control of all the robots and machines in the lab. Jason activates a crane carrying a metal bar and he makes it hit the two thugs and it knocks them down. He then makes a laser arm come by and send a giant laser beam at the thugs. The thugs dodge it and one of them trips on a small robot that is made from spheres. He then gets two battle robots to come out and fight the thugs. The thugs grab cans of oil sitting on a table and they pour it on the floor and the robots slip in the oil and they fall in it.

The artificial zero gravity environment is activated and the place loses gravity completely. The thugs begin to fly around the lab and they get hit by robots and other objects in the lab. They then see Jason in the control room. The thugs try to swim over there but they can't. They grab onto other objects and they launch themselves to the control room. Jason knows what is going to happen so Jason enters a code into the keypad. The thugs open the door and they enter the control room. They pin Jason to the ground and they crowd around him. One of the thugs picks up Jason and he squirms rapidly trying to break free but it does nothing. The thug said, "You think you can stop our syndicate? You can't. You have lost. We will steal everything in the house and in this lab and we will break you in the process. We know how to make it look like an accident so that's what they will all think." Jason said, "You guys are the real fools in this place. You think you can prosper from robbing someone else of their fortune? You are greatly mistaken. The police are on their way here and they will arrest the two of you." The thug said, "That's what they say but they cannot come here because they are busy with a fake crime we set up downtown. You will be killed."

The other thug looks at the screen in the control room and he sees there are numbers counting down on it. He said, "Hey, Buzz, this computer appears to be counting down to something. I don't know what it is." Buzz still has Jason in his hand and he walks to the computer and he views the status. He said, "The place is going to self-destruct in five seconds." The two thugs look at each other and they panic and the control room launches out of the lab and it falls and crashes on the ground outside of the house. Police cars surround the area and they place the thugs in handcuffs. The police see Jason and they thank him for helping catch the criminals. Jason sees the family car drives back in the driveway and Mason gets out and he looks at the control room on the street. Mason said, "How did my control room get out on the street?” Jason said, “It is an incredible story. I am sure the security cameras got the whole thing on tape.”

The next day, Jason goes into Mason’s lab as Mason is at his computer viewing the security tapes. Mason said, “I am indeed impressed. I did not realize you were capable of all that but you did it. I am proud of you. Now that is two criminals less in this town. I would not get your hopes up that this is the last we will see of them. They appear to have been from a crime organization that has something against the city of San Francisco. They know about you and there is a good chance they will want revenge against you. I should give you some defense gadgets that I have made just in case. On another note, I have a video of you wearing a bra and a lamp shade. I should send that into San Francisco’s Stupidest Home Movies and we could be rich.” Jason said, “That would be the day.”